Back in January, we explained that we had made the difficult decision to retire support for Logging Made Easy \(LME\). Then in April we let you know that one of our collaboration partners, the Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency (CISA), would be relaunching an updated version of LME to current and new user communities.

Today, as they promised, CISA has relaunched LME.

As CISA say, LME is a tested and reliable solution that can help organisations with limited resources needing a centralised logging capability.

Read more about the new LME in CISA's announcement, which includes links to the new Github resource.
